CUSTOMER INFORMATION Restriction of diisocyanate-containing polyurethane (PU) products

Training obligation according to EU regulation

Dear Sir or Madam,

For manufacturers and users, the EU Regulation 2020/1149 on the restriction of diisocyanates against the background of occupational, environmental and consumer protection from an increased diisocyanate concentration, mandatory training with the necessary training measures is necessary. The Official Journal of the European Union announced the measures to restrict diisocyanates after an allergenic effect via skin contact (dermatitis) and inhalation (asthma) was proven.

As of February 24, 2022, you have already been advised of the required training on the labels of the associated packaging and containers: From August 24, 2023, under the current restriction on diisocyanates, appropriate training must be provided prior to industrial or commercial use. The EU Commission's training obligation applies directly in all EU member states for handling concentrations of more than 0.1 percent by weight.

You will receive all relevant information as an attachment.

With kind regards
Würth Industrie Service GmbH & Co KG
